THE CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART DISTANCE LEARNING EVALUATION FORM........ 12
How to Prepare Your Class for the Distance Learning Presentation

Teacher Information will be sent or made available to you prior to the program.

Please familiarize yourself with the materials and discuss them with your class.

Have the Teacher Information Packet (T.I.P.) materials on hand in the classroom, ready for the program. These materials may be used during the videoconference.

Be prepared to facilitate by calling on students yourself during the lesson. Students are sometimes initially shy about responding to questions during a distance learning lesson.

Explain to students that this is an interactive medium and encourage them to ask questions.

Reinforce topics discussed in the program by asking students to complete some of the suggested pre- and post-conference activities in the Teacher Information Packet.

We ask teachers, after the program, to please fill out the Evaluation Form and return it to:

Distance Learning at the Cleveland Museum of Art

L’Art de L’Afrique

Grades 9-12

Program Objectives:
1. Students will learn and understand that the Cote d’Ivoire is just one region of the continent of Africa and is composed of many nations that have their own traditions and spiritual practices. Students will be made aware of the fact that the styles, materials, techniques and functions of the works of art these nations create also vary, even within a single region, as we discuss the Cote d’Ivoire, the Baule, Senufo and Nuna peoples who inhabit this region, and the objects they create.

2. By studying the works of art, students will learn that even though these objects are beautiful, they also have important social functions. The objects may attest to the social status of the wearer and/or are used in ceremonial rituals.

Common Core Standards:
Grades 9-10

CCSS.ELA-Literacy.SL.9-10.1
Initiate and participate effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grades 9–10 topics, texts, and issues, building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly and persuasively.

CCAA.ELA-Literacy.RH.9-10.3
Analyze in detail a series of events described in a text; determine whether earlier events caused later ones or simply preceded them.

For Social Sciences - Geography (grades K-12):

Pre-requisite Activities:
1. Students should know the location of the Cote d’Ivoire on the continent of Africa, as well as its history. Students could make a timeline of major historic events that occurred in this region.

2. Students could also research the customs and traditions of the various African peoples who inhabit the Ivory Coast. Consider how these people live, work, dress, etc, in both the past and present, as well as the traditions they maintain and the ways these traditions are upheld.

Selected Vocabulary:

Cote d’Ivoire: A country in West Central Africa, on the Gulf of Guinea, in a region that overlaps the tribal homelands of the Baule, Senufo, and Congo peoples.

Diviner: A person who can foretell the future by occult or supernatural means.

Liminal: Someone or something that is at a threshold or boundary. For example, liminal animals can cross the boundaries between land, sea, and/or air, such as turtles, snakes, birds, and crocodiles.

Colonialism: The system in which a country maintains foreign colonies for their economic exploitation.

Casting: A method for creating metal objects by melting the metal and pouring it into a mold to harden.

Proverb: A short but common statement that expresses a truth or common experience which may be obvious or enigmatic.

Teaching Extensions:
1. Have students research the Cote d’Ivoire and its history of French Colonialism. How did the French invasion affect life in this region and what Baule traditions were maintained? Do the works of art studied in the DL lesson reveal any impact of Western Civilization?

2. Students could also research paintings, photographs, and films of the Cote d’Ivoire (or Africa in general) and its citizens by Western artists and discuss how the artists’ Western attitudes about these people and their culture are revealed. Do the works of art evoke positive or negative connotations of them? Do they represent how the Cote d’Ivoire (or African) peoples really lived, worked, dressed, and worshipped? Based on what you’ve learned about African traditions, rituals, and ceremonies, how are they depicted in art?

3. During the lesson, students should make a list of the various animals represented in the works of art they will see. Have students research these animals and their mention in African proverbs. Discuss how their attributes (i.e. fangs/fierce, horns/weapons) relate to their meanings for African culture and the function of the objects on which they are represented.

4. Compare rituals, writings, and art of the Cote d’Ivoire (or Africa in general) with those of the United States, i.e. spiritual practices, the way mothers are portrayed, tradition of oral histories and proverbs. What kinds of African images represented or rituals discussed might seem particularly unusual in our society? What proverbs are prevalent in our society? How would you represent them in a work of art?

5. Draw or describe your image of the ideal spirit spouse. How would he or she look, dress, act, etc.?

6. Create masks for an event, perhaps using animal imagery to symbolize certain aspects of it. Consider how the mask will function most effectively in the celebration. Students could even choose an event from the history of the Cote d’Ivoire.

Writing About Art

Learning to write about art is a helpful tool in understanding it. Once the observer knows what to look for in a piece of artwork, it becomes easier to both write about and understand the work. Art critics use a process known as DAIE (Describe, Analyze, Interpret, and Evaluate) to critique an artwork. Listed below is a guideline that will help you engage in this process.

DESCRIBE:
1. What do you see? What is this picture about?
   People
   Objects
   Scene – time and place
   Action – what is going on?

2. How is the work made? What materials, tools, or process are used? What elements has the artist manipulated? The following list may be helpful.
   Oil, watercolor, pastel, ink, clay
   Palette knife, brush, pen, chalk, etching, screen printing
   Color, value, line, shape/form, space, texture

ANALYZE:
3. How is the artwork organized? Do certain aspects stand out to you? How does your eye move over the piece? Is there any type of pattern or rhythm created in the work? Are elements proportionally correct (right size comparatively?)

INTERPRET:
4. How does the work make you feel?
   Happy, sad, anxious, angry, nostalgic, adventurous
   Are the brushstrokes rough or smooth, or are they evident at all? Are the colors hot or cool?
   Is the subject matter active or quiet? Are the lines flowing, irregular, or discontinuous?
In addition to analyzing the work, it is also important to do a little research about the artist such as when and where the artist lived. What were some of the things the artist was concerned about, and how is this apparent in his or her work? Were there things in the artist’s life that inspired him or her? In short:

5. What can you learn about the artist?
   - What country is the artist from?
   - What can you find out about his or her experiences?
   - What ideas or feelings is the artist suggesting?

EVALUATE:

Finally, play the role of the art critic. Art criticism is based on a number of things. Think, for example, about the style the artist is using. You may want to consider the following approaches the artist may have taken:

   Realism: The artist accurately describes the subject matter – the art looks real.
   Formalism: The artist has experimented with shape, color, space in an unusual way.

Now put it all together! You decide-

6. Has the artist succeeded in doing what you think he or she tried to do? Explain your opinion with why you feel the way you do about the artwork.
